The Big Seagull (novel) The Big Seagull (2010) is a crime novel by American novelist Carl Hiaasen. The book is one of several of Hiaasen's novels featuring editor Benigno "Benny" Quíñones III and Bobby Zamora, a young orphaned Hispanic who works as editor for the Miami Herald. In Hiaasen's novels, the newspaper has been bankrupt several times, and the Quíñones-Zamora characters have worked their way up through the ranks at the paper. Plot introduction Benny and Bobby Zamora, the main characters of the novel, are now newspaper editors at the Miami Herald. The Herald is known for its political scandals, the Great Miami Hurricane of 1926, and its history of bankruptcy. In the novel, the Herald is about to go through another bankruptcy. The Big Seagull is a meditation on Miami's status as the weather capital of the world, on the turmoil caused by people making a dollar out of death, and on the difficulties of American journalism in the modern world. In the novel, reporters for the Miami Herald are posted to a media center to cover a hurricane. One of the hurricane's victims is a little girl, Crystal, a.k.a. Crystal the Seagull, whose real name is Katie Russo. The hurricane kills her mother, a wealthy real estate developer.
